

The Court of Claims of Harrison County has voted $10,000 to add in building a bridge over Licking River at Pindexter.

The colored Methodists of Paris, it is said, will arraign all their members for trial who voted against local option the other day.

Alabama devotes a little over one-third of her State revenue to her public schools, but Kentucky does still better. Nearly one-half of her State taxes is assessed for school purposes.

According to Gen. Patrick A. Collins, who was returned to Congress from Boston by a largely increased majority, tariff reform was the only question in the recent campaign in that section.

The editor of the Enterprise is egotistical enough to imagine that he has coaxed some of the Irish Democrats of this county into the Republican fold. No one was ever more egregiously mistaken.

The Railroad Commissioners have assessed the roads in this State at $35,800,574, an increase of $4,000,000 over last year's valuation. We have 1,973 miles of road, 50 of which are not yet taxable.

The Board of Trustees of Shelbyville have refused to grant liquor license, and the saloons will all have to close their doors and quit the business. Judge De Haven sustained the Board in its action.

Judging from the news from Lewis, it begins to look like some more of the Republicans of that county would be running before long, but not for Congress. They will be trying to keep out of the clutches of the law.

The Enterprise talks of frauds at Lewisburg. If there were any frauds out there, the good citizens of that place can no doubt name, without a great deal of trouble, the two men from this city who were on hand with Morg's money. The Republicans ought to send some one else, though, hereafter.

The Bulletin's "twaddle" about the "frauds in Lewis" must have made the editor of the Enterprise rather uneasy. He pleads in a half dozen editorials that Judge Wall "surely must have too much good sense" to connect Morg's election. Brother Davis, why not say "please don't, Mr. Wall, you'll get our Republicans all into trouble if you do."

"Don't worry about John G. Carlisle, ye Republican contemporaries. Go with your sympathy to John Sherman or Mr. Blaine, or somebody else that needs it. Mr. Carlisle is all right. He will be re-elected Speaker of the House of Representatives with such brief ceremony and decisive emphasis that George H. Thoburn would wonder how he dared run against such a man."—Exchange.

The editor of the Enterprise represents Bill Fitch seated behind a poor, little miserable looking donkey on his way to Washington to tell Grover that "Morg run." We are inclined to believe that if Fitch and his donkey ever reach Washington, the remarks from the people, as the two drive up in front of the White House, will be, "a fine pair," "two of a kind," etc., etc. We are certain no one brayed louder than Fitch did in the convention that nominated "Morg."

HENRY GEORGE, in his recent work on the tariff question says: "Massachusetts is a highly protected State. In Lawrence, one of the most highly protected cities in the State, capital invested in manufacturing has made a net gain of over 20 per cent. per annum for twenty consecutive years. The success of the 'highly protected' laborers in these same manufacturing is now about eighty-five cents a day for men and sixty-five cents a day for women. Child labor, of which there is altogether too much, is 'thrown in.'"

Samuel A. Walton.
Samuel A. Walton, of Lancaster, Ky., Friday nominated by the President to be United States Consul at Asuncion, Paraguay, is a native of Mason County, and is a lawyer. He is about thirty-two years of age. He was educated at Bethany College, Va., and was admitted to the bar in 1876. He is a brother of Judge Matt Walton, of Lexington, Ky., and is unmarried. The new Consul is a gentleman of intelligence, integrity and industry, and his selection for the post of duty to which he has been assigned is an admirable one. He will acquire himself creditably, and do honor to his country by his services in the Consular Department. Controller Durham secured his appointment with Governor McCreary's assistance. Mr. Walton was also indorsed by the entire Congressional delegation from Kentucky, and by numerous prominent citizens.—Courier-Journal.

HEREFORD CATTLE BREEDERS.

They Take Steps Toward the Extinction of Pleuro-Pneumonia.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—The National Herd Cattle Breeders' association held its annual meeting in this city, about 100 members being present. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, A. H. Lavan, Champaign, vice president, Thomas Clark, Beecher, Ill., executive committee, H. H. Clough, Elkhart, O.; board of directors, J. A. Funkhouser, C. J. Jacobs, W. Hamilton, J. A. Henry and C. N. Cosgrove.

A lengthy discussion upon the necessity of the association leading itself to the extermination of pleuro-pneumonia ensued, the result of which was the appointment of a committee of three to select thirty members as delegates to the convention of the National Cattle Breeders' association and authorizing them to spend pro rata as much as the other associations which are members of the association in securing legislation providing for the extermination of the disease. A resolution was adopted asking the secretary of the treasury to withdraw the permit for the importation of cattle for a period of one year. The latter resolution met with considerable opposition, but it was passed upon an authoritative statement that pleuro-pneumonia is prevalent in Great Britain, especially in the Dublin district.

EMBEZZLER ENO.

The Biggest Crook in Canada Preparing to Make Restoration.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Through the untiring efforts of an unnamed settler negotiating for settlement have been opened before the friends of John C. Eno and the directors of the Second National bank, from whom he embezzled over $200,000. The round millions were made good by his father, and the directors had to supply the remainder. The United States district attorney yesterday confessed to a knowledge of the negotiations, but declined to say whether or not he would quash the indictment if they were successful.

A friend of the family says that when Eno received a letter from his sister telling him what had been done, he took an early morning train at Montreal, and reaching this city at night, repaired to the paternal mansion on Fifth avenue. He wore a heavy Canadian ulster and a soft felt hat. The collar of the coat was turned up, and served to completely hide his face. No one would have recognized him in that attire, and certainly none suspected him. It was said that he actually hungered for a look at the old house and the old friends. No one would have taken a desperate chance. The next night he returned to Canada.

The Crouch Murder Trial Postponed.

JACKSON, Mich., Nov. 15.—Dudley Crouch was to be tried in the November term of court, which began Monday, for complicity in the murder of the Crouch family. To-day Prosecuting Attorney Ball announced that the case would go over one term, as it was impossible to secure the attendance of witnesses for the state. The case has already been postponed several times, and this further delay causes much comment.

Killed By Bears.

VIDEN, Ill., Nov. 15.—Joseph Highland, a farm hand, entered a bear pen containing two large bears, owned by L. R. Thompson, a rich farmer. Highland went to clean the pen, when the animals attacked him and lacerated him so badly that he died last night. He had been engaged in lumbering, and it is supposed that the scent of the blood on his clothing made the beasts furious.

A Small Embezzlement.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—Charles Johnson, a collector for the wholesale wine dealers of Bardonia, is missing, and Philip Bender, the head of the firm, states that they are $5,000 out of pocket. The embezzlement has been in progress several months. A warrant has been sworn out for Johnson's arrest.
